On the left is a dark sidebar with navigation options: 'Author' (with a globe icon), 'Welcome' (with a graduation cap icon), 'New Manuscripts' (with a dropdown arrow), 'Revision' (with a dropdown arrow), and 'Co-authorship'. Under 'New Manuscripts', there are links for 'New Manuscript', 'Incomplete Submissions', 'Sent Back to Resubmit', 'In Process', and 'Co-authorship'. Under 'Revision', there are links for 'Request for Revision', 'Revisions Being Processed', and 'Declined Revisions'. A yellow callout bubble points to the 'New Manuscript' link with the text 'Click on new manuscript'. The main content area has a header 'Entering Manuscript Information' and a list of steps: 'Select Manuscript Type' (with a right arrow), 'Enter Manuscript Title' (with a red X), 'Add/Remove Authors' (with a red X), 'Enter Abstract' (with a red X), 'Enter Keywords' (with a red X), 'Select Related Subjects' (with a red X), 'Additional Comments' (with a red X), 'Attach Files' (with a red X), 'Cover Letter & Checklist' (with a red X), and 'Finish Submission' (with a red X). The main form area is titled 'Manuscript Type' and contains a warning: 'To submit your manuscript to this journal, you need to complete submissions that incomplete submissions will be automatically removed after 30 days.' Below this is a red instruction: 'Please select the manuscript type'. A dropdown menu labeled 'Select Manuscript Type' is open, showing 'Research Note' as the selected option. A yellow callout bubble points to the dropdown with the text 'Select your manuscript Type'. At the bottom right of the form is a green 'Next' button, with a yellow callout bubble pointing to it that says 'Click on next to continue'. The top right of the page shows user icons and the name 'alina schmidt'.

Abstract

The abstract word limit is 100 to 250 words

Think of the jump from the world of radio, to the world of television. During the age of radio, people spent time by listening to music, stories, news and early formats of talk- shows. The capabilities of the days' technology were utilized fairly efficiently. When the television came around, although the technological capability was now much higher (allowing the transmission of images and opening up the space for visual storytelling) the early content remained very similar to those in the radio days. People would gather up around a table. They would read through the stories with texts and notes in front of them, as if they were in a radio show. The camera would generally be motionless.

Although the audio content was interesting, the visual content was static. Only in time, the visual content has started catching up to the technical capabilities of television. Slowly it started using "visual storytelling" to its full potential. The same logic applies to every other technological leap
